MAORI CHIEFS AT CAMP IN CANYON LINEHAN LEFT AN ESTATE OF $25,142

Stuart Meha, Peiti Luxford, Wi Takana and wife, Takareli Ihala and wife, Maori chiefs, are in the city the guests of some of the Mormon missionaries to New Zealand. In the past few years, and they will be entertained during their stay in the city until next Tuesday, when they will join in the annual festivities of the Pacific Islanders in Utah at Lagoon.

This afternoon and evening a Maori camp feast will be held in Ogden canyon, a short distance above the power dam, at which the chiefs and their wives will preside. A Maori dinner will be served in native fashion and the cooking will be done as among the Maori tribes in New Zealand.

Large stone ovens will be built and vegetables and fruits will be cooked in them. The eating will be in the native style, each person squatting around the festive dirt board and partaking of the food with the fingers.

The first company left the city for the camp grounds at 2 o'clock and another at 4 o'clock p. m. dinner to be served at about 6 o'clock.

Quite a number of Ogden residents will indulge in the festivities and aid in the entertaining of the visitors.

Sunday evening at 7 o'clock in the Academy building on Jefferson avenue, between Twenty-fourth and Twenty-fifth streets, the Maoris will deliver addresses in the English language which all speak fluently. By way of diversion a little of the Maori tongue may be spoken, principally for the amusement of those who have learned that language while engaged in missionary work. It was first planned to have the chiefs speak in a number of the wards of the city, but it was finally decided that it would be better to have them appear before a general assemblage in the school building.

The annual gathering of Pacific Islanders, which will be held at Lagoon, will be in charge largely of the Maori chiefs and the place will be turned into a veritable Maori village, all cooking for the banquet to be under Maori supervision. There are a hundred or more Islanders in the north and central part of Utah, most of whom are expected to participate in the festivities. These, with visiting friends and missionaries, will make up a large company at the resort.

Today two wagons loaded with Maori food have gone to the camp in Ogden canyon and during the afternoon and evening one of the most unique canyon parties ever held will be given.

ENTERTAINED THE MAORI CHIEFS

Last evening at his home on Twenty-seventh street, Commissioner T. Samuel Browning entertained the visiting Maori chiefs and their wives and a number of former missionaries in New Zealand.

The commissioner was a missionary to the Mormon church in the Pacific Islands in 1893. He has an acquaintance with the visiting Maoris and reminiscences of the earlier days were recalled.

The evening was spent in music and song and refreshments were served.

The guests present, aside from the Maoris, were Messrs. F. H. Wright, A. T. Wright, M. C. Woods, W. W. Shaw, F. W. Ellis, J. C. Ellis, J. W. Reeves and Joseph Wallace, D. Lee, F. T. Flinders and D. E. Davis; the Misses Carrie, Irma, Olive and Florence Browning, and Olive and Lucille Wallace, Messrs. C. C. Wilson, M. F. Malan, W. D. Ellis, J. H. Jenkins, A. S. Ferrin and Nathan Hawkes and Mrs. G. C. Woods and Miss Edna V. Woods.

ACTION AGAINST MEAT MARKET

In the district court, the Utah Association of Credit Men has commenced suit against the Ideal Meat Market operated by David Pugh, for $500.50, alleged to be due on certain accounts for meats and groceries contracted for with J. S. Campbell and the Fred J. Kiesel company during the past four years.

The Campbell account is stated to be $489.93 and the Kiesel account $100.73, both of which have been assigned to the plaintiff in the action.

REBELS DESTROY MOUNTED AUTO

Constitutional Field Headquarters, Hacienda Hermanes, Coahuila, Aug. 6.—Via Eagle Pass, Texas, Aug. 8.—A party of mounted federalists from Monclova, led by an armored automobile, yesterday attempted to raid the Hacienda De La Cruz near the city, where twenty-five federalists were killed by a mine explosion a few days ago. The besieging constitutionalists aimed low at the automobile, their bullets stripping it of tires, crippling it for further use on the bad roads of this region. The cavalry escort galloped back to Monclova.

The appraisers of the estate of J. H. Linehan have concluded their labors and have announced that the estate is to pay to the state treasurer the sum of $705.20, inheritance tax. The entire estate is valued at $25,142.31, the indebtedness amounting to $1,078.20, which, with $10,000 exemption, leaves $14,064.11 subject to a five per cent inheritance tax.

The court has instructed the executors, Mary Morrissey and Kate Mullen, to pay that amount to the state.

Mr. Linehan died in this city last year, after a protracted illness. He was in business here many years and owned much real estate, besides valuable personal affects. Mrs. Morrissey and Mrs. Mullen were his sisters.

PRESERVATIVE PLANT FOR TIES

That a large plant for the preservative treatment of railroad ties will be established in the inter-mountain region within the near future is the belief of Logging Engineer Daniel F. Seery, of the local office of the forest service. Mr. Seery has been giving much study to the possibilities for a treating plant in this region, to handle lodgepole pine timber, not only in the form of railroad ties but telephone and telegraph poles.

"The erection of a large treating plant in this region, similar to those operated by some of the eastern railroads, will save the inter-mountain railroads thousands of dollars annually," Mr. Seery says. "At the present time most of the inter-mountain railroads obtain their supply of ties from the coast, having to pay freight rates over other roads or the cost of hauling them over their own lines. The result is that these ties cost at local points from 10 cents to 30 cents more than local ties would cost at the same points."

Location of a treating plant in this region would make it possible to utilize a great amount of lodgepole pine timber which occurs in northern Utah, southern Idaho and western Wyoming.

"Practically all of the lodgepole timber in this region is so located that it can be driven and transported to railroad points, and there are several ideal central locations for a large treating plant. The Union Pacific railroad is the only inter-mountain road now using lodgepole pine ties, and practically all of the timber used by this company is made from lodgepole pine. The company has a treating plant at Laraine, Wyo., where its ties are treated and then distributed for use. The durability of the lodgepole pine tie, after it has been treated with preservative, is well established, and I understand that a number of the other railroads in this region are now considering the matter of admitting lodgepole pine in their tie specifications."

"I believe that it will only be a few years until these roads will see the great advantage which will accrue to them in establishing a treating plant and utilizing the great amount of local timber tributary to their roads, thereby obtaining ties at less cost and without the long hauls now involved in bringing in coast material."

"Not only is there a great amount of local lodgepole pine available but species suitable for railroad material is found in abundance. This timber is mainly Douglas fir and Engelmann spruce. The local Douglas fir is superior to the coast fir in its durability as railroad ties and does not require a preservative treatment before use. On the watershed of the South Fork of the Snake river with its many tributaries there is excellent timber of Douglas fir, Engelmann spruce and lodgepole pine to supply the railroads of the inter-mountain country for practically an indefinite period and it cannot be many years before some of the railroads take action to avail themselves of this vast supply of excellent timber."

Mr. Seery stated that the question of using lodgepole pine timber for telegraph and telephone poles is being seriously considered. Recent tests made by the forest service in Montana show that by the use of lodgepole pine poles, with treated butts, a saving of 50 cents per pole per year over the cost of cedar poles now generally used could be realized.

Within a short time, a pathfinder party will seek out a route from Weber canyon to Ogden canyon in order that automobilists may enter Ogden from Wyoming by means of that route. It is not known yet whether the route is one that can be converted into an automobile road without prohibitory expense, but an investigation of the possibilities will determine just what action will be taken.

The Weber club has decided to collect at once an exhibit to be placed in the Utah Chamber of Commerce headquarters in Salt Lake. The exhibit will include products of the agricultural and manufacturing industries of Weber county and efforts will be made to have an exhibit from that county at the Weber club this afternoon when additional details incidental to the planning of the excursion are being discussed.

CAR LINE WILL BE BUILT ON JEFFERSON

Manager P. D. Kline of the Rapid Transit company states that since being advised by Commissioner J. C. Nye, superintendent of the street department, that the street grade at the intersection of Jefferson avenue and Twenty-seventh street will not be reduced, the board of directors of his company has decided to lay the roadbed for the Twenty-seventh street car line extension over Jefferson avenue at the time the paving is done there.

The company had desired to build the Twenty-seventh street extension over that street direct from Washington avenue, but the present grade is such as to make it quite impossible to operate cars over that route, so the only route left for the extension, says Manager Kline, is over the Jefferson avenue from Twenty-fifth to Twenty-seventh street.

Grading for paving is now being done on the avenue, and the Transit company will be prepared to build its roadbed when paving begins. The road will be of standard structure, and the surface will be of asphalt.

Commissioner Nye stated this morning that concrete surface used on Washington avenue north from the home of Mrs. H. Terry, 272 Twenty-second street, and which will be used on Lincoln avenue between Twenty-fifth and Twenty-sixth streets, would not be permitted on Jefferson avenue, because of the petition of so many property owners that the roadbed would be of the same material as the balance of the street paving.

WRESTLERS TO TRAIN IN PUBLIC

Public training exhibitions free to the public, will be given by Jack Harberson and Chris Jordan at the Orpheum theatre Monday and Tuesday evenings, to give the wrestling fans of the city an opportunity of seeing just what the men are capable of doing.

Because Jordan will not arrive in Ogden until Monday, Harberson will be the feature on that night. He will wrestle with his trainers, Cleary, Preshaw, Fisher, Ferguson and Rader.

Howard August, the wrestler, is in the city and he may meet one of the men in the exhibitions.

It is not yet known who Jordan will take on Tuesday night, but it is thought that he will bring some husky amateurs from Salt Lake with whom he can tug and tussle on the mat. Interest continues to increase in the championship match and it is believed that a full house will greet Harberson and Jordan on the night of August 15 at the Orpheum.

Jordan has agreed to a return match with Yokel, but if Harberson defeats Jordan the plans may be the man with whom the others must deal. All points considered, the match promises to be interesting from a number of standpoints.

THROUGH OGDEN CANYON FROM THE EAST

To inform transcontinental automobilists concerning the route to Ogden after leaving Echo, the Weber club has ordered a large steel sign to be made and erected in a spot near Echo that will be plainly visible to all automobilists about to start for either Salt Lake or Ogden. The sign will be erected within a few days.

To further popularize travel through Weber canyon, the club is to present the matter of a good road through the canyon to the commissioners of Morgan and Weber counties in the hope that an excellent road may be constructed.

Within a short time, a pathfinder party will seek out a route from Weber canyon to Ogden canyon in order that automobilists may enter Ogden from Wyoming by means of that route. It is not known yet whether the route is one that can be converted into an automobile road without prohibitory expense, but an investigation of the possibilities will determine just what action will be taken.

WALL STREET.

New York, Aug. 8.—Extraordinary interest attaches to the government crop report to be published this afternoon, because of the serious damage to corn and other conflicting or uncertain conditions. The stock situation by remaining dormant for the greater part of the earlier session after it opened moderately and firm. Union Pacific and New Haven fell a point each, the latter being sold on rumors affecting future dividends. St. Paul and Northern Pacific were up a point. Washburn issues were strong; the preferred rising three points and Lackawanna Steel gaining 7-12.

Coppers were firm in anticipation of a favorable producers' report. Bonds were irregular.

Gains were quite general at the opening of today's stock market, the feature being Washburn preferred, with an advance of 2-5. Canadian Pacific, which had been weak recently, made fractional advances, with the exception of Reading, which was slightly lower, and Steel unchanged from yesterday's close.

Reports of another advance in copper prices abroad and increased demand for the metal here caused a revival of speculative interest in the copper groups, which offset the monthly showing. Generally speaking, the tone of the market showed improvement over the forenoon dealings, but the buying was trivial. The condition disclosed by the crop report appeared to have been discounted in the earlier weakness. Prices improved steadily after the report was out, some shares rallying a point. Shorts were buyers on the

WRECK IN THE SALT LAKE YARDS

A wreck occurred in the Denver & Rio Grande railroad yards at Salt Lake City at 1:30 o'clock this morning, when the head engine of a doubleheader on passenger train No. 5 struck a split frog, and leaving the track, turned over on its side. The engineer and fireman escaped by jumping. The remainder of the train did not leave the track.

No. 3 was about three hours late, and shortly before 1:30 o'clock was entering the Salt Lake yards. The train, which was a heavy one, was drawn by two locomotives, and was running at a high rate of speed. The head engine split a frog, "jackknifed" and tore up the track. When it was leaving the rails the engineer and fireman jumped clear of the engine, which later turned over.

The second engine did not leave the rails and was not damaged. The train was backed away from the wreck and a sidetrack to the depot. The damage to the locomotive and track will be very heavy. The passengers escaped with a slight shaking up.

CHICKEN TAKEN TO POLICE STATION

Chief of Police W. I. Norton and Detective George Wardlaw arrested a chicken at noon today. The chicken was not the kind that crosses the road to get an ice cream soda but a real live chicken of just the right age to be fried. At the same time, the two officers arrested a negro couple, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gray, and charged them with vagrancy. The chicken was arrested against the wishes of the officers but at the request of the colored people.

Suspecting that all was not well in a house on "Dirty" row, in the rear of Twenty-fifth street and east of Wall avenue, Chief Norton and Detective Wardlaw visited a shack and found the two negroes smoking opium. As they were about to place the two in the patrol, a chicken ran out from under the bed and the negro made haste to seize it.

"Leave the chicken here," said Chief Norton.

"What! And let some low down cullud nigger cook and eat it," replied Gray.

Although the police were firm, the negro was firm too and finally the springer was freed by the legs and given a ride to the station in the patrol.

The man and his wife were locked upstairs and the chicken is tied by its leg in the basement.
